The Rimball colors are flying at the masthead in the East. Their Washington warerooms, mention of which has been already made in these columns, will be in the charge of W. B. Price. This branch house is established for the accommodation of the rapidly-growing trade in the States near by, especially in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland. At a concert given recently in Washington by the Georgetown (D. C.) Orchestra, the musical public had an opportunity to hear the fine tonal qualities of the Kimball. The Washington Post refers to the concert and the piano in the following manner:

"John P. Lawrence, with orchestral accompaniment, gave Weber's F minor concerto. He shared largely the honors of the evening. An easy reserve power, a smooth freedom and a delicacy of phrasing distinguish his playing, and made the rendition of even the most difficult and brilliant passages to appear unaffected and naturally real. He was appreciably assisted by the instrument upon which he played. The hall has lacked a really high-class plano, and the introduction of a beautifully-toned kimball is evening was appreciated by music lovers. Emil Liebling will play in Washington in Metzerott Hall on March 3 and in Brooklyn on February 28, using the Kimball agand at both entertainments.

Breckinridge His Own Mainstay.

Very Sanguine The Case Good for Fully Two

His Attorneys Appear to Be

Weeks More. as to What the Defense Will Not Be-A Breach of Promise by a Benedict is Actionable

ssociated Press Leased-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The le-gal complications and side issues of the Pollard-Breckinridge case, which are gradually coming to light as the trial proceeds, increase the public interest here in Washington where the Kentucky orator is best known, and make it the most sensational case ever re-viewed in the criminal courts here. it the Curiosity is rampant among the lawyers as to the line of defense which the array of five attorneys will have made out for him. For a time after the revela-tion of the secret marriage of Col. Breckhridge to Mrs. Wing in New York on April 29 was made public it was the general opinion that this circumstance would form the basis for the defense, but today the atterneys for Breckin-side have intimated to the contrary. Even had they had not said so, it is a fact that the promises of marriage alleged by Miss Pollard to have been made to her, except for the statements in the presence of Maj. Moore, were before the date of the clandestine mar before the date of the chandestine mar-riage. Moreover, it seems to be es-tablished by a preponderance of the authorities that a promise to marry made by a married man furnishes ground for a breach of promise action in case it is accepted in good faith by the other party, who is ignorant of his legal disability to fulfill the contract,

The mystery of the defense will be solved in a few days, however, for it it the present intention to place Col. Breckinridge on the witness stand as the first witness in his own behalf. It is evident the attorneys place their principal reliance upon the story which he will tell, and, from their sanguine state of mind today, it seems probable that they must have in reserve resources which have not yet been known. That Col. Brec'tsridge's recital will be a long one, was foretold by one of his attorneys today, when he said the defendant would doubtless be on the witness stand three days. it the present intention to place Col.

The attorney prophesied that the trial will continue for two weeks, or maybe longer. He said that the cross-examination of Miss Pollard would construct the contract of amination or Miss Pollard would con-sume two days mgre; that Breckinridge would be on the stand three days; that two days would be occupied in reading depositions, and three days in closing the oratory for the defense. Prom this statement it appears the defense expects to probe into the cir-cumstances surrounding Miss Pollard's detense expects to probe into the cir-cumstances surrounding Miss Pollard's life in much greater detail than was indicated by the cross-examination by Mr. Butterworth. That part of Wash-ington which enjoys a sensation, and it is a large portion, is anticipating eagerly the cross-examination of the silver-haired defendant by Attorneys Wilson and Carlisle.

THE DIVORCE STORY. LOUISVILLE, March 18.-If Mrs. the defendant in Miss Pollard's breach of promise suit, the fact is unknown to her relatives in this city. A reported visited the home of or. Scott tonight and his inquiries elicited the information that the fam-ily had known nothing about Mrs. Breckinridge's intention to sue for di-vorce.

Lord Roseberry's Speech Commended by Speaker at Cooper Union. Associated Press Leased-wire Service. NEW YORK, March 18.-The Coun-

It was very likely

shierrly of the Irish people to the home-rule question. It was very likely that the Conservatives, if they came into office, would pass a home-rule bill for Ireland. No matter what name it was called, the Irish people should accept it.

At the same time it was the duty of the Irish people, at home and abroad, to support the Liberal and Radical parties, for it was their aggressiveness which caused the Conservatives to do anything for the masses. The Liberals and the Conservatives, he said, were like the tortoise and the hare, the Conservatives were generally slower, but won nearly always in the end. The committee of organization reported the various branches in the city were ready whenever asked to collect subscriptions in behalf of the Irish parliamentary party under Justin McCarthy. McCarthy.

A FOUL CRIME.

Murder in the Sluma London.

A Well-to-do Job Man Killed by a Woma of the Town-The Body Found in Her Trunk.

ssociated Press Leased-wire Service

LONDON, March 18.-(By Atlantic Cable.) This city has for a comparatively long time been exempt murder, but today a sensation was caused by the discovery of a crime that in its details somewhat resembles the notorious Gouffe murder that occurred some time ago in Paris. The scene of this latest horror was in Grafton street, in the Soho district, which is infested with foreigners of the lowest class. It was in the immediate vicin that the police recently raided the Anarchist Club.

An Austrian woman named Marie Hermann, who is well-known to the police as a night prowler, recently rented a small room in a house on Grafton street. On Thursday night last she, in company with an elderly man, was seen to enter the room. Subse-quently loud quarreling was heard in the room by the other tenants in the house, but as wordy wars were of frequent occurrence, no attention was paid to them.

A woman named Hutchins, who odged with the Hermann woman, on Friday found blood-stains in a sink and spoke to the Hermann woman about them. The latter passed the matter off lightly, but on Saturday she changed her lodgings, taking better apartments in Marylebone street. She took with her a heavy trunk, which she asked should be carefully handled. In the meantime the suspicions of the Hutchins woman were aroused, owing to the blood-stains found in the sink. In addition it became noised about the house that the man who had gone to the woman's room had not been seen to leave it. The Hutchins woman followed the Her-police that sne suspended to the house on Maryle Officers went to the house on Maryle Officers where the Hermann woman officers went to the house on Marylebone street where the Hermann woman had taken up her residence and a search was made of the apartments of her house. Her trunk was in the room. The police forced it open and found in it the body of the missing man. His head had been battered, evidently with some blunt instrument. The body presented a frightful appearance and the clothing in which it was attired was drenched with blood. The Hermann womann was taken into custody on a charge of wilful murder.

The body has been recognized as that of a well-to-do job man named Stevens. He was 76 years of age. It is believed that the Hermann woman had an accomplice, as Stevens was a muscular man. It may be, however, that he was killed while asleep. The prisoner is 43 years of age. She is ugly, almost to repulsiveness.

Elijah Harrison, a non-union workman. who took the place of one of the striking potters at the East Liverpool pottery, has created a furor in labor circles here by appealing to the British government for protection against the strikers. Harrison recently came here from England and is still a British subject. He wrote to the British Am-

He has received a letter from Secretary Johnson of the British legation in Washington stating that the Ambassador had taken cognizance of his case. The letter directs him to make a formal demand for protection of the local police at police headquarters and then produce his documents. He was promised protection.

Apples and Olives Go on the Free List. Raisins and Dried Grapes at 11-2 Cents. Plums, Prunes and Figs Pay 20 Per Cent ad Valorem-Senator White

Leaves , Baltimore for California.

By Telegraph to The Times. SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.-(Special Dispatch.) The Chronicle's Wash ington correspondent wires that the re-port that the Senate has cut down the fruit schedule to the point where it stood in the Wilson bill is true. It is probable that whatever is accomplished towards regaining these concessions will have to be done in the course of debate after the bill has been reported to the Senate.

California has again suffered at the hands of those who desired to cut down the revenue so as to provide ample reason for the income tax and, in order to appear some trifle more consistent placing lower duties on articles consumed by the multitude. This restores to the free list apples, olives, dates, pineapples and bananas; it drops grapes, plums and prunes to 20 per cent. ad valorem. Figs will be 20 per cent. also, the reduction in both cases being 10 per cent. from the amended Senate bill; raisins and other dried grapes will be brought back to 1½ cents per pound. Senator White has left for California by way of Baltimore, whence he depart tomorrow. He will not have an op fight the matter through committee, as he will not have returned before the bill has been re-ported to the Senate.

FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS. Contested Election Cases to Come Up In the House. Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, March 18 .- As soon as the Sundry Civil Bill is disposed of, which will probably be tomorrow, the House will take up the four contested election cases which are pending: The O'Neil-Joy case, from the Tenth Missouri District; the Williams-Settle case from the Fifth North Carolina; the English-Hilborn case, from the Third California, and the Whatley Colby case, from the Fifth Alabama. The O'Neil-Joy and English-Hilborn cases, which were both decided against the sitting members (Republicans) by strict party votes in the Committee on the sitting members (Repulonicans) of strict party votes in the Committee on Elections, are the most important and will require the major portion of time. In both these cases the result of the election in November, 1892, was exceedingly close. There were two counts in the O'Neil-Joy election the recount giving Joy (Rep.) 67 plurality. O'Neil was beaten on the face of the returns and he instituted the contest on the ground that the Missouri election law had not been complied with, it having been shown that some of the Joy ballots had not been numbered and initiated as required by that law.

The case before the committee hinged upon the determination of the question as to whether the Missouri election law in this particular should be regarded as mandatory or simply directory. The members of the committeed wavered for some time, but finally decided, by mann woman when she moved and, for some time, but finally decided, by after learning her number, informed the a strict party vote, that the law was mandatory and that its technicalities had not been observed. This decision nad not been observed. This decision gave the seat to O'Neil.

In the English-Hilborn case the result was also very close, English receiving 13,130 on the returns, against Hil-born's 13,160.

English's case rested on the claim ing 13,130 on the returns, against Hilborn's 13,160.

English's case rested on the claim that in one precinct the returns had been manipulated, and his attorneys charged that while Hilborn was not responsible for it, he had been the beneficiary of that manipulation. At the close of the case Hilborn's attorneys still claimed his election by one vote, but the Democrats decided in favor of English.

In the Williams-Settle case the contestant alleges that the sitting member had been elected by the bulldozing and intimidation of negro voters by the Republicans, but most of the Democrats of the committee refused to support his contention. Mr. Woodward (Dem..) however, dissented from the decision of his colleagues.

In the Whatley-Colby case the committee unanimously decided against the contestant, who was a Populist, and his case can have no standing in the House whatever.

If the contested election cases are disposed of this week, which is hardly possible as the Republicans will doubtless insist upon the presence of a Democratic quorum to unseat their colleagues, the House will proceed with the consideration of the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation Bills.

The present week will, so far as the calendar reveals, be devoted by the Senate to routine business of no general interest. It is probable that the Fortifications Appropriation Bill will be reported from committee, and, if it should be, it will probably be taken up for discussion and put upon its passage, and there will be an effort to dispose of the government-printing site, the Russian thistie appropriation and the McGarrahan Bill, and a large number of special bills on the calendar.

THE SUPREME COURT.

Some of the Important Cases to Be Heard by This Tribunal. Associated Press Lessed-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—By the ppointment of Senator White of appointment of Senator White of Louisiana to be Associate Justice, the Supreme Court of the United States, has once more its legal quota of justices and the court will soon take up and hear arguments in those cases which it has been desired shall yesterday, and was placed in a hospital here. He had a through ticket to Dublin, Ireland, and also a draft on the Bank of Dublin for £80, besides about $160 in currency. It is thought excessive drinking and the high altitude caused him to become crazy.

Which it has been desired shall which it has been desired shall bench. There are enough of these cases to occupy the attention of the court for more than a month and the present expectation is that much time will be consumed in that way.

The court has set the Indiana tax cases for a hearing before a full bench on March 26, though it is said to be probable that the argument in the cases will be heard whether Justice Jackson is here or not, it being the desire of those interested to have the case dispared of. Among the important cases assisfied by the court for a hearing before a full bench on April 2 are the following: Involving the constitutionality of the Texas railroad laws; oleomargarine cases from Massachusetts; a reargument of the case of Constable et al. vs. the National Steamship Company (limited) which has been pending for a long time; a reargument of the case of Hilton vs. Guot, involving the question of foreign judgments; Barden vs. the Northern Pacific Railroad and railroad cases from Montana.

The cases assigned for hearing on April 9 include the following: The Interstate Commerce Commission against Brimson, from the Northern District of Illinois, in which ex-Senator Edmunds appears as the special counsel for the commission; the United States vs. the Transmissouri Freight Association from the Circuit Court of Appeals of the Eighth District, and the United States (appellant) vs. the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Union Pacific Railroad Company. There are upwards of twenty more cases awaiting argument before a full bench, but up to this time no steps have been taken to assign them for hearing.

American Journalism.
Associated Press Leased-wire Service. WASHINGTON, March Washington Times, a morning daily, appeared for the first time today and made a very favorable impression, Marshal Cushing is editor-in-chief and H. J. Brown is manager. The paper is strongly backed by the labor organizations and is unique in the fact that fully 4000 persons are interested as stockholders in its success. The Times has the Associated Press new:

service.

In its leading editorial, after explaining that the agitation for the new paper started largely with printers and it is for this and many other reasons the people's paper, the Times outlines its policy concerning the main issues of the day. Speaking of its news service it says: "The Times is fortunate and the Associated Press is not unfortunate, we trust, that the greatest of all newsgathering associations is at the service of the new Washington dally and the hearty co-operation of this journal is vouchsafed now, to-morrow and always to this all-ramifying chronicler of the news of the world. "The Associated Press is mutual and co-operative, its interests lying among hundreds of great and small American newspapers. Its service reaches around the globe. Its methods are the most approved growth and practice of years of experience. The Times congratulates its readers that its local news service is supplemented by this complete and instant telegraphic service."

DA GAMA ESCAPES. The Rebel Admiral Gets Away on a Portu-

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 18.—(By Brazilian Cable, Associated F Copyright, 1894.) Judging from course of events here it is thought by impartial observers that the Portuguese government does not intend to honor the request made upon it for the sur-render of Admiral da Gama. cers with him be delivered into his hands. The Portuguese Minister declined to order the commander of the Mindello to surrender the fugitives, and Peixotto appealed, it is said, to the Portuguese government, to instruct its Minister to order the surrender of the insurgent officers.

Whether a reply has been received to the request or not cannot be definitely stated, but this afternoon the Mindello and the Albuquerque, another Portuguese warship, having on board Admiral da Gama and seventy of his officers, put to sea. It had been thought in some quarters that if the vessels attempted to leave the bay with the fugitives on board trouble would ensue. There was not, however, the slightest opposition to their departure and, as a matter of fact, trouble from this source was never probable.

The destination of the warships is not known. It is conjectured they will go south to Montevideo and land the insurgent officers there. If they are landed at Montevideo, they can easily, if they are so disposed, join the insurgents in Sao Paulo and Rio Grande do Sul, who are still in armed opposition to the government.

The fact that Admiral da Gama and his officers have succeeded in getting out of the bay is a matter of great rejoicing among their friends here. There is no doubt in the minds of anybody that had the admiral been surrendered to the government his trial by a drum-head court-martial would have been only one result of a trial of this kind and that would have been only one result of a trial of this kind and that would have been only one recontinues epidemic. A STEAMER ASHORE.

The Transatiantic Company's Vessel La Bre-tagne Stuck in Sand. NEW YORK, March 18.—The Gen eral Transatlantic steamer La Bretagne from Havre March 10 for New York ran ashore last night at a point abou twelve miles east of Fire Island. Details of the accident are not easily ob-tainable, but it has been ascertained that the vessel went ashore on a sandy bottom and that she will probably be gotten off when the tide reaches the flood.

A dense fog has prevailed over the sea and land ever since an early hour last night and navigation along the coast was thereby rendered difficult and dangerous. It is conjectured that the steamer, which was due to arrive in New York Sunday morning, had been caught in the fog. Owing to the thick weather and perhaps a miscalculation as to the strength of the current, the steamer lost her bearings. It is not believed she is in any danger. It is impossible to get any details or explanation of how the accident occurred. The La Bretagne is a four masted vessel of 6895 tons gross, 4142 net. She is 482 feet 5 inches long, 52 beam nd 27 feet 8 inches depth of hold.

During the past week money was in fair demand in connection with the spttlement at the Stock Exchange. Discount was dropping; bills were very scarce, holders awaiting lower terms, which seem inevitable directly the government dividends are released.

Business at the Stock Exchange was restricted and no revival is expected until after Easter. The tone, however, was good and the movements were mostly upward. The demand for investment securities continues keen. The chief feature of the speculative market was the rise in Brazilian national securities which advanced 4%. There was an equal advance in the various Brazilian railway issues. Rio exchange, however, has not recovered, owing to disorganized business and anxiety regarding the situation in the States of Sao Paulo and Rio Grande do Sul. Other low-priced South American issues advanced on good purchasing. American railroad securities were strongly supported from the beginning of the week until Thursday, when prices dropped, but there was a partial recovery on Saturday. Louisville and Nashville showed the largest advance, the rise being 2%. All the other American railroad securities rose from ½ to 1½. Canadian Pacific was 15-8 higher. LONDON, March 18.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The annual report of the I.ONDON, March 18.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The annual report of the Cunard Steamship Company shows a profit for 1893 of £200,000, of which £153,419 will be debited to the ships and wharves and £36,965 to the insurance fund, leaving £587, to which £30,000 will be added from the insurance fund in order to pay £32,000, which is a division of 2 per cent. The balance of £3867 will be forwarded to the crédit account. The total insurance fund now amounts to £322,000.

The report says trade throughout the year continued unprofitable and disappointing. The receipts from the second-class passengers alone showed an increase. The carrying of freight was without profit. The coal strike caused an increase in the company's expenditures. Two twin-screw freight-steamers of 5000 tons each have been ordered to be delivered at the end of 1894 and the beginning of 1895. The report concludes that the service has been executed efficiently and the vessels and machinery have been maintained in excellent condition.

Two physicians were attending those most injured, while the wounded hobbled painfully around the yard. Half a mile south a white man's housewas completely demolished, but with the exception of a few painful bruises all escaped. John Kuffet's wagon near by was blown away and much of it has not been found. The granery of Nick Harris, two miles east, was unroofed. All previous accounts of immense hallstones and wind dwindle into insignificance in comparison with this storm. Many of the blocks of ice were from fifteen to eighteen ounces in weight, and others were found today, after a warm rain and warm weather, larger than goose eggs. Two of these missiles passed through the roof of C. E. Thornton's house, making a hole like a cannon ball. Fowis roosting in the trees were killed by thousands. A cow belonging to Frank Léwson was killed and live stock bear misny marks from the ice stones. About three hundred window lights were broken in this place, while farm fences and fruit trees were prostrated for miles around. Full particulars will doubtless swell the casualities.

CRIPPLE CREEK (Colo.,) March 18.—It has been quiet here today, and it is now thought there is little likeli-hood of serious trouble. Some of the miners, however, are desperate men, and not a few of them went through the horrors in Coeur d'Alene, as they have often admitted. intended, Gen. Brooks decided that it would be better for the men to march. This decision was reached after the receipt of advices from this city that there was a strong possibility that the miners on Bull Hill would attempt to ambush the troops in some narrow defile. Of course, the commanding officer did not know but this information was correct, but, in reality, it was without the least foundation.

Today the soldiers have done nothing but lie in camp. Adjt.-Gen. Tarsney and Brig.-Gen. Brooks have their head-quarters in the Palace Hotel. A hospital had been opened in the large building in the upper town, and it now has five inmates, but none of the cases are of a serious nature.

A iarge number of business men waited this evening upon Sheriff Bowers and Gen. Tarsney and Gen. Brooks. The situation was fully explained to the officers of the National Guard. Later, Gen. Tarsney had a long talk with Gov. Waite by telephone and explained the situation to his chief as fully as possible. Gov. Waite advised that a conference with the miners and authorities of Altman be held. his was agreed to on all sides, and the Sheriff said that the men on Bull hill should-come down from the hill and return again without molestation. He means that they will not attempt to serve any warrants on the men tonight, while they are in the city.

Martin Alexander, the Mayor of Altman, and John Daley, the Deputy Marshal of the town, were arrested in this city and placed in jail. John Calderwood, president of the Miners' Union, was also arrested. A few hours ago the men were taken to the County Jail at Colorado Springs.

There was an incendiary fire in the town last night, which was quickly put out, and a large charge of giant to dorder the serve and the committee of the lown is at the lindependence and Portland mines, but doing no great damage.

No member of the Miners' Union had anything to do with the arrest of officers at Altman on Saturday night. If any mistake had been made it was made by the authorities of Altman and the miners were in no manner responsible. The union requested Brig.-Gen, Tarney to withdraw the troops, but he replied he could not do so, as the Sheriff insisted they were needed.

In answer to a message from the Altman authorities, asking why he had sent the troops, Gov. Waite tonight, replied: "I sent the troops for the preservation of the peace on the repeated and urgent request of the Sheriff. They will be used only for that purpose. Five deputy sherins arrived in town tonight from Victor with Walter Russell, president of the Victor Miners' Union. He was arrested on the charge of contempt. At Victor all the saloons were closed about 2 o'clock today by order of the Sheriff. They will be kept closed until the present crisis is passed. It was rumored that all the saloons in Cripple Creek, Anaconda and Altman would be closed at midnight. It is not yet known what caused the explosion of giant powder near the Independence last night. The union miners believe it was done by some enemy who wanted to stir up sentiment against them. A petition to Gov. Walte, asking him to withdraw the troops is receiving many signers.

DENVER, March 18.—Gen. McCook today withdrew the Federal troops from this city to Fort Logan. The proceedings against Mayor Van Horne and Police Commissioners Rogers, Barnes and Mullins for contempt of court, in having violated the injunction issued by Judge Graham on behalf of Martin and Orr, will come up before Judge Glinn tomorrow morning. Judge Graham having gone on a vacation. The hearing will probably be postponed until the hearing in the Supreme Court, submitted by Gov. Waite for the purpose of ascertaining who are legally entitled to act as commissioners is disposed of. It is set for a hearing tomorrow, afternoon.

The situation is still critical for Martin and Orr, acting on the advice of their counsel, declared they will not be governed by the opinion of the Supreme Court, but will insist on holding office until a decision is obtained in a regular manner in the case pending in the District Court. Their attorneys, Wells, Taylor & Taylor, definitely decided today that they would not take part in the argument and the hearing, they say, will be ex parte and not binding. It is even doubtful if the Supreme Court will give an answer to the question submitted by the Governor. In that event the Governor may renew his attempt to clean out the police department by force.

Speaking of the issue presented to the Supreme Court will do justice to the cause. If I ever again call out troops to act in Denver, of one thing I am assured, the force will be large enough to do the work. If I have any doubt as to the power of the National Guard to carry out the object for which it is summoned. I will call upon the unorganized millitia of the State to come to our assistance."

CHICAGO, March 18.—People in the vicinity of a new grain elevator in process of erection in South Chicago yesterday afternoon were horrified to see Joseph Coates, a carpenter, slip on the roof and silde rapidly to the edge. As he was going over the edge Coates grabbed a wall plate with his right hand and hung to it, his body being suspended at a height of 100 feet. Coates's fellow-workmen were paralyzed with fright and two of them fainted. The others soon recovered their senses and set about to rescue him. All this time Coates was crying out to those in the sound of his voice to save him. In the course of a few seconds the horror-stricken watchers on the bridge below saw a man appear at the window, and behind him were several other men. The first man leaned forward until it seemed as if he would tumble headlong, but strong hands put a rope about his body and held him securely while he reached out and grasped the man hanging from the wall platform and succeeded in getting him to the window ledge. Then, with an almost superhuman effort, he brought him through the window.

The rescued man, when he found himself saved, fell over in a dead faint, and the rescuer, William Jones, another carpenter, collapsed completely. A faint cheer reached those in the room at the top of the elevator. Coates, when he finally revived, was in such a nervous condition that he had to be assisted home by two of his fellow workmen.

[RAILROAD RECORD.] AERODYNAMICS.

The Latest System of Transportation.

And What a California Inventor Hopes to Do.

A Novel Idea Even Should It Prove Nothing More.

Trains to Be Equipped With Apparatus to Utilize Wind as a Motive Power in Connection With Theorists whose ambition is to fly in a machine constructed "out of their own head," so to speak, have of late been closely studying the buzzard, with the view of utilizing that graceful bird's been closely studying the buzzard, with the view of utilizing that graceful bird's principles of soaring to forward their own inventions, Advanced students of the problem of aerial navigation now proclaim that if man is ever to attain proficiency in flying he must give up the idea of a rapid wing-motion and trim his sails in such a manner that the opposition of the wind itself will, as in the case of soaring birds, keep him suspended at his will, and his physical and intellectual powers may be devoted to the guidance of his craft. Experiments in what is called "aerodynamics" are being made now by learned men to determine how far man can go in fathoming the mystery of flight, especially the long-continued soaring of birds that float about at will without the perceptible flutter of a wing.

While the study of "aerodynamics" is yet scarcely begun the knowledge of electricity and its capabilities is yet in the primary grade. As little as is known of each it is proposed to turn both to account in a practical way by combining the rudimentary principles of one with the most perfected power of the other toward forming so-called semi-aerial navigation. The story of the proposed combination is told in a pamphlet entitled "The Coming Railroad," published by Lieut. G. N. Chase of the United States Army, and H. W. Kirchner, F.A.I.A., inventors and owners of the Chase-Kirchner aerodromic system of transportation. If The Times is not mistaken Lieut. Chase is well-known in these parts, was once a resident of Pasadena, where he several years ago invented a system of transportation, which included suspended wire cables and balloons as accessories. If this is not error Lieut. Chase's newest project presents some features of improvement in making a stationary elevated track to take the place of the suspended cables and a parachute arrangement using the aerodynamic principles instead of aeronautics.

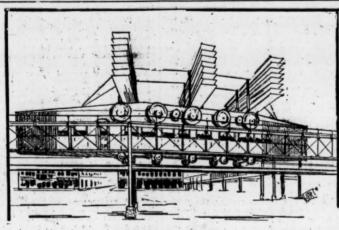

Much of the matter is too abstruse for the general reader not versed in "Much of the matter is too abstruse for the general reader not versed in technicalities of scientific inventors, but an effort will be made to partially explain how the new system of railroading is to operate. To quote from the pamphlet: "The aerodromic system of transportation is, in brief, a compromise between the present railways and aerial navigation. It eliminates from the former problem the obstacles to great speed, namely, grade-crossings, and lateral curves, and from the latter those of starting, stopping and guiding." The most novel feature of the system is in the sets of planes which surmount each car and are to be tipped to such an angle that in the rapid propulsion of the car the wind so acts upon the planes Much of the matter is too abstruse as to lift the car, lighten the load and thereby add to the propelling power, which in this case is electricity. "In this mode of supporting a body in the air, its specific gravity, instead of being as heretofore a matter of primary importance, is a matter of indifference, the support being derived essentially from the inertia and elasticity of the air on which the body is made rapidly to run."

Coming to the explanation of the mechanical features involved the inventor says:

"The track is elevated and of steel. It consists of two parallel trusses, six feet in depth, and about eleven feet apart. The upper and lower chords of these trusses form the rails or guides. This trussed roadway is supported upon steel columns, a variation in the height of which helps to modify the grade where necessary. These columns are firmly fastened to stone or concrete foundations, and are thoroughly braced. The spans average about thirty-seven feet in length, but may be varied to suit the requirements of the strain. "The rails are of especial designs. The lower ones are reversed, and so constructed as to give a bearing for wheels on their lower sides.

"The track will be practically a right line between stations, in the immediate vicinity of which curves may be introduced if necessary. In crossing deep ravines or rivers, where long spans are more economical, steel cables may be used, supported in such a manner that the line of the car's progress will be practically rectilinear, or a continuous, tangent to the resulting catenary.

"The cars will be of different lengths—from 40 to 100 feet—and of sufficient cross-section to give all of the usual interior arrangements for comfort. They can also be adapted to all classes for freight. All cars will practically rectilinear, or a continuous tangent to the resulting catenary.

"The cars will be of different lengths—from 40 to 100 feet—and of sufficient cross-section to give all of the usual interior arrangements for comfort. They can also be adapted to all classes for freight. All cars will necessarily be inclosed, and of a stream-line form, since a body of such shape meets only with a frictional resistance in passing through the air. Cars for grain and coal will contain hopper-shaped bigs, and will be unloaded from underneath.

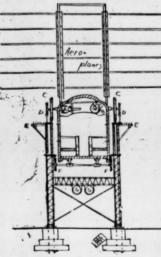

"The driving wheels are four to six feet in diameter. Each axle carries two motors, with the armatures directly upon it. The axle of the trolley-wheels passes through the sides of the car near the top, with journals the same as the driving axles, but in insulated bearings. The trolley-wheels have a contact on the upper side of the conductor, and, being free to fall by their weight, and that of their axle, a perfect contact will always be insured.

"Presupposing the fact that the aeroplanes can lift the greater part of the load, upon a level or even on a grade,"

"A minimum atmospheric resistance is attained by giving a fair or stream-line form to the car, which in itself presents a cross-section of about eighty-one square feet, sufficient to give all the comforts of the Pullman car. The peculiar track construction, and the absence of lateral curves, will prevent as seats will prevent any disagreeable effects from the vertical curves, due to grades. Perfect ventilation, heating and lighting by electricity, freedom from smoke, dust and cinders, establish the claim of even greater comfort to the traveler.

"An absolutely straight track, besides giving the shortest distance between points, gives the most favorable conditions for great specd. Heing practically independent of ordinary grades, to suffice the great part of the load, upon a level or even on a grade, and totally so of grade-crossings, high speeds under all conditions are made dent to any part of the mechanism can result, ordinarily, only in a de-lay. The cars will be fire-proof. The breaking of an axle would not derail the car, and it is difficult to see how anything short of the complete demoli-tion of the track and car could result disastrough.

disastrously.

"Mr. Edison, when asked what in his opinion was the practical limit on the horizon of electrical locomotion, replied, 'Perhaps one hundred and fifty miles an hour,' A speed of one hundred and twenty-five miles an hour for both passengers and freight is not an unreasonable claim. Even one hundred and fifty miles per hour is within the bounds of possibility. It is merely a question of power, and mechanical perfection in the track and car.

"Journeying at one hundred and twenty-five miles an hour, the traveler from New York would reach San Francisco inside of twenty-four hours. He could proceed to Paris, via Bering's Strait, in actually less time than it now takes to cross the Atlantic. At this speed the fruits of California could be placed upon Eastern tables with their bloom unsullied, and her flowers with the dew still upon them."

WITH A MANIAC.

A Nurse's Experience With an Insane Patient.

A Female Attendant Attacked by an Insand fore She Could Be

At 3t. Paul's Hospital, at Sixteenth and Hill streets, early yesterday morning, Mrs. O. D. Buffington, in attendance upon an insane woman, was attacked and savagely beaten by the patient, as a result of which she may be disfigured for life. On Thursday last Mrs. Buffington was sent for to take charge of a patient, who was said to be suffering from nervous prostration. She left her mother's residence, at No. 312 West Second street, shortly after noon, and this was the last seen of her by her relatives until yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, when she returned to her home in a frightful condition, cut up about the head and face, bruised and disfig-ured and a complete wreck from nerv-ous excitement. Her husband immediately procured medical assistance, and, after some time, the half-delirious woman, was relieved by the use of opiates As near as can be learned from her disjointed and incoherent story, Mrs. Buffington had been constantly on duty with her patient from the time she went with her patient from the time she went to the hospital. About 4 o'clock Sunday morning, while sitting by the patient's bedside she slightly dozed, when the woman suddenly sprang out of bed, and, picking up a small nickel alarm clock, struck the nurse a crushing blow on the head, screaming out, "Yes, I am crazy, and I will kill you!" In mad fury she rained blows on the head of the defenseless woman, felling her to the floor, and jumping upon her. In the struggle Mrs. Buffington's hair fell down, when the woman seized it, and began dragging her about the room, kicking, scratching and biting at her during the whole time. Mrs. Buffington screamed for help, when the maniac suddenly picked her up bodily and threw her on the bed, attempting to smother her with the pillows. The nurse finally broke away, and the other attendants, hearing the sounds of the struggle and the cries for help, came to her rescue, and the maniac was secured. Mrs. Buffington was kept at the hospital during the day, and sent home on the street cars in the afternoon, arriving at her home as above described,

Late last night her condition was to the hospital. About 4 o'clock Sunday

nome on the street cars in the afternoon, arriving at her home as above described,

Late last night her condition was such that she could not be interviewed, as the doctor had given instructions that she could not be disturbed. MrsBuffington is described as a small, delicate woman, and her husband said that she had but recently recovered from a severe spell of sickness. He said that he had been out of work for some time, and his wife went out nursing to help support herself and child. He said that he had ascertained that the woman who had attacked his wife, and whose name he understood was Strasbourg, had been taken out of the city by her husband, and they were on their way to Chicago. Mr. Buffington was very indignant over the action of the hospital authorities in keeping his wife at that place until after the woman was out of the way, and then sending her home in the way they did.
The hospital people were called up by telephone last night at 10 o'clock, and in answer to inquiries it was stated that a Mrs. Strasbourg had been in the institution, but that she had gone away. It was also stated that Mrs. Buffington had been there, but she, too, had gone, they did not know where.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY. An Institution That is Doing a Great Deal o

Comparatively speaking, Los Angeles, and, in fact, the whole of Southern California, has very few cases of the absolute destitution which is so often met with in the larger cities of the Eastern States, but that there are occasional instances which demand immediate attention is very painfully apparent at intervals. The main difficulty with which the philanthropically inclined are confronted, usually, is not the temporary relief of the sufferers, for almost every one is willing to extend a helping hand to his fellow-creatures in distress, but that of permanent provision for children, who, being unable to help themselves, after their immediate wants have been supplied, need something more substantial. occasional instances which demand im-

It may not be generally known that an association has recently been organized throughout the State for the express purpose of solving this problem. It is known as the Educational Aid Society, or Children's Home Society, and, although its headquarters are in San Francisco, it has local boards in almost every city, town and village in the State. The State board of managers consists at present of the following officers: President, Rev. D. D. Hill, Pasadena; vice-presidents, Rev. A. C. Smither, Los Angeles; Rev. J. D. Easter, Redlands' E. P. Sargent, Riverside; C. N. Crittenden, San Francisco, and Gen. John Bidwell; legal counselor, E. E. Galbraith, Los Angeles; treasurer, W. F. Bosbyshell, Los Angeles; superintendent, Rev. R. Garton, Santa Ana; assistant superintendent, John W. Ellis, Los Angeles; Since the incorporation of this society over fifty homeless and helpless little ones have been cared for education. Since the incorporation of 'this soclety over fifty homeless and helpless little ones have been cared for, educated and placed in good homes by its officers, who act upon the basis that, if the proper steps are taken to locate them, homes can be found for every child who actually needs one. The first State to organize such an assoclation was Allinois, in 1883, but since that time eleven others have followed suit, with the result that several thousand children have been provided for.

The society is constantly enrolling new members, but needs many more good work it has undertaken, and has, therefore, issued a call for aid, benevolently inclined. All communications should be addressed to the

It happened while she was living in Paris entertaining orru-scale which dazzled the bourgeois, who learned of her wonderful balls and banwas living in Paris entertaining on—scale which dazzled the bourgeois, who learned of her wonderful balls and banquets, as much as it did the really exclusive society of Paris, which knew no more of them from experience. The nobility and title rastaquoures that filled the rooms of her hotel in the American quarter and dined lavishly from her gold plates seemed to her then to represent the best of European society. In those days her daughter married the Italian. After a while, when Mrs. Mackay came to realize that the titled gentlemen who swarmed to her home were of the kind that can be gathered in any European capital by a liberal hostess, and not likely to be of any permanent social advantage to her, she wisely went to London. The indorsement of the English nobility is worth more in a social way than that of all the other countries of Europe taken together and Mrs. Mackay succeeded in London in attracting to her house a set which has been of more advantage to her than all the titled flotage of Paris could ever have been. Possibly had she realized this sooner Miss Mackay would never have been. Possibly had she realized this sooner Miss Mackay would never have been. That nobility of all in Europe offers least to an American woman—at all events outside of its own country. Few Americans who can avoid it are willing to live there and the honor of exalted position is rather an empty one. Next to marriage with a titled Englishman an alliance with a really aristocratic Frenchman or German is the best thing for an American woman ambitious for social position in Europe. After these three countries comes Austria, but a man should be of higher rank there than in any of the other countries to obtain for a wife the same degree of social recognition. AT THE CHURCHES

The Problem of the Poor is Discussed.

Practical and Timely Sermon by Rev. Mr. Larkin.

Strongly Indorses the Work of Associated Charities.

Revival Services at the Central M. E Church-Eloquent Sermon by Rev. Mr. Thomson-Other Re-

Rev. F. M. Larkin, pastor of the Cen tral M. E. Church, preached yesterday morning on the subject of "The Prob lem of the Poor," taking for his text, Thessalonians iii,10, "For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work neither hould he eat.

We are in the midst of perilous times said the speaker, and people are called upon daily by persons claiming to be in want and it is necessary that we should be very careful in giving as-sistance. It is not right to give in a sort of promiscuous, sentimental fash-ion to all who apply for aid, neither should we harden our hearts because should we harden our hearts because many are unworthy.

The Christian religion is necessarily the friend of the poor. From the beginning of the Bible provision was made for the help of the worthy poor, but you will notice that this assistance was always provided for in such tance was always provided for in such a way as to avoid the very thought of pauperism or beggary. Christ came to the poor, lived among the poor and was himself a poor laboring man all His life upon earth and His teachings are very plain on the subject, and we as His followers, ought to be ready as His followers, ought to be ready and willing at all times to do all in our power to help those who are really in need. Christ says, "Inasmuch as ye did it not unto the least of these, my brethren, ye did it not unto Me." He carries the doctrine still farther even to your enemies in need. "If thine enemy hunger feed him, etc."

carries the doctrine still farther even to your enemies in need. "If thine enemy hunger feed him, etc." All benevolent institutions which provide for the unfortunate are the outgrowth of Christian teachings and Christian revilization. We look in vain for any such institutions in pagan or heathen countries. There is much talk in these times of "love for humanity," but it is all borrowed from the teachings of the Lord Jesus Christ.

While Christianity and the church are the friends of 'the poor they are the enemies of pauperism.

Begging has become a profession and ought to be discouraged by every legitimate means. Every man who desires to work ought to have an opportunity to do so, but if he "will not work, neither should he eat." Some say with a weak sentimentality that it is better to feed a number of unworthy men than to let one worthy man suffer, but we should not proceed upon any such a theory. Mr. Stewart expressed good, sound doctrine when he said it was better to make one man dig a hole and another fill it than to feed them without their doing anything.

He who gives bread to an unworthy beggar is helping to develop a race of begggars and paupers.

But you ask, "How can we do it then?" I would answer that the best plan that I know of now is through the medium of the Associated Charities. All those applying are carefully investigated and if worthy they are helped and in this way your money is judiciously expended and professional beggars are discouraged. That old, but foolish saying, "The world owes me a living," is exploded. The world owes no man a living unless he gives a reasonable return for it.

He said he did not think that a man, because he was able to throw some discredit on what is called orthodoxy, thus imagining himself to be an advanced thinker, was liberal; or the man who says: "I am perfectly willing other people should believe whatever they wish to. I believe what I like, and am willing others should believe what they like." This has a liberal sound, yet the most selfish person might say it. He thought that the true liberal is the man who loves his neighbors. He will show his liberal spirit by kindly treatment of all who differ with him, and, by his freedom from bigotry regarding religion, politics or social questions.

In conclusion, he said the true liberals have the future simply because truth spoken in love is the almighty power of God.

listened to throughout with close attention.

In the evening Rev. Dr. McLean preached another of his practical sermons on "The Home Life," his topic being, "Companionship." The theme was not only fitting to the pulpit, but timely and helpful, in fact, such practical subjects are too seldom discoursed upon. The points of good temper, neatness, industry, sobriety and chastity were ably discoursed upon and showed throughout that the young man and the young woman in whom virtues and graces are found are the sincerely religious persons. A true Christian is such an one—not a hypocrit or a mere professor of religion, who is guilty of mean and unbecoming Christian is such an one—not a hypocrit or a mere professor of religion, who is guilty of mean and unbecoming actions or sayings. These latter are mere pretenders, practicing deception in the higher relationship of marriage to Christ, and such would deceive the very elect among mortals. As no one can—be a true Christian who is not moral, he argued that the Christian makes the best husband and wife. Christ in the heart and godliness in the life brings chastity, sobriety, and all the other named virtues. He exhorted the unconverted to first see to it that their own hearts and lives were made pure and good, seeking a companion of like Christian living. Such are not unequally yoked together, but happily mated.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH. Rev. Burt Estes Howard preached to an interested congregation at the First Presbyterian Church yesterday morning. Communion was observed, a number being received into the church, two on confession of faith. The music was excellent. Mr. Howard delivered a short sermon, taking as his text the thought, "The Spirit of Man is the Lamb of the Lord."

These were wise words of a wise man. There was nothing in them of philosophy which robs man of personality. Man is organized by his very nature for the touch of God. The philosophy of the ages is severely analytical, but in no sense is it prophetic. It dives into the roots of things only to end by coming up out of holes with its hands solled with the reasons. It tells only why things are. Science has a diagnosis for everything, but no prognosis. Whatever may be true of the association of the body with the animal, it is a fact that man is equipped to be imbued with the swin spirit and to lift us up and place on us the crown of godliness.

What is the text but a statement Rev. Burt Estes Howard preached purpose of God to make us aglow with His own spirit and to lift us up and place on us the crown of godliness.

What is the text but a statement of possibility? The capacity for man's becoming godly is the manifest of God's ultimate glory. If a man is truly of this power he has not fulfilled the purpose of his life until he has obtained the heavenly spirit.

Poor, indeed, is the man who carries God's lamp in his breast, and does not light it, the saddest feature of all being a wasted soul.

In conclusion, the speaker earnestly prayed that the spirit of the living God make us willing and fill us with heavenly grace and send us forth in the world imbued with the divine light.

TEMPLE-STREET CHRISTIAN. Rev. A. C. Smither of the Temple-street Christian Church preached yes-terday morning to a large audience upon the "Church as a Building," I Corinthians, iii, 9-15. Spiritual truth, said the speaker, is Spiritual truth, said the speaker, is conveyed to us through material figures or representations. Among all of these figures few are more fitting than the comparison of the church to a house. In Christ's kingdom we have first the foundation which was not a man as some religious bodies teach; neither was a system of doctrines, nor an ideal Christ, but was Jesus Christ, a historical, real person. Without Him in this divine nature as the foundation there can be no true church established. The very fundamental idea of the church cannot be removed without destroying the identity of that body.

We next have the master builder or architect, according to whose plans We next have the master builder or architect, according to whose plans and models the church must be erected. The inspired apostles were these architects. Guilded by the Holy Spirit they have taught, as recorded in the New Testament, all that is necessary for the establishment and organization of the church and the evangelization of the world. The denominationalism of today is the result of man tampering with and undertaking to improve upon the divine plans as they came from the hands of the inspired men of God. Acting in accordance with these plans ministers of the gospel and other Christian workers are to build the church of God; are to erect the magnificent structure that challenges the world's attention and that will defy the tooth of time. What a glorious work is there committed to the hands of man!

work is there committed to the hands of man!

The material with which this building is to be erected is men and women, immortal souls, redeemed by the blood of Christ. These the apostic very fittingly divided into six classes—gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay and stubble. Such are the characteristics of church people of today. Many of these cannot resist the slightest temptation, while others can resist the strongest temptation of Satan, and thus prove themselves worthy of the inheritance of the saints in light.

Christ preferred to speak of Himself as "the Son of Man." The phrase occurs more than fourscore times in Ezekiel and twice or thrice in Daniel, and signifies a mortal man in contradistinction to an angel. In the gospels it means man in the highest degree. In Christ humanity climbed to its highest point. He put the emphasis upon man-consciousness as well as on God-consciousness, and in Him the race-consciousness, and in Him the race words whom the him that the last, the will be held on some planet, whom could human beings send to represent them at this congress?

Christ is the only representative of humanity that we could send. He was tempted. He realized everything that we have to suffer. Even despair selzed Him at the last, His will was different from God's will. "Not My will but Thine be done." 'I came to do not My own will but the will of Him that sent Me." If human nature be depraved, then Christ, as all human beings, inherited His spirit directly from God, and His body only from His parents, It was shown that Christ had power over physical, intellectual, moral, and emotional diseases. THE MESSAGE INCORRECT.

Yet No Order Was Sent to Have It Repeated.

(San Francisco Call, March 17:) Judge
Hubbard decided a legal question yesterday that determines to some extent the liability of telegraph companies for errors in messages sent and de-livered.

The suit is brought by Jefferson G. The suit is brought by Jefferson G. James & Co., the cattle firm, to recover damages from the Western Union Telegraph Company. It appeared that in November, 1889, the firm sent an agent down to Newman, Cal., to purchase cattle, the price paid not to exceed 6 cents per pound. While there the agent was offered some cattle at 7 cents and telegraphed to San Francisco for instructions. A return message came saying: "We want the cattle at 7 cents. Come home."

In consequence of this message the agent purchased the cattle and shipped them to his employers' premises to be slaughtered. But when that was done it transpired that the message received by the agent was incorrect. It should have read: "We want no cattle at 7 cents. Come home." James & Co. found that the extra cent per pound

Judge Hubbard, the case. Or Judge Hubbard, in refusing the suit for damages, decided that the rules of the company governed the case. On the back of each message the attention of the public was called to the rule that "to guard against mistakes or delays the sender of a message should order it repeated, that is, telegraphed back to the originating office for comparison. For this one-half the regular price is charged in addition." The firm's agent should have guarded against accident by obeying this instruction, and as this was not done the company could not be held responsible.

In conclusion, Judge Hubbard gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff firm for 30 cents, the cost of the message.

Matters appeared to be quiet as far as the unemployed were concerned yes-terday. The men formed in line in good season in the morning and marched to Illinois Hall at Broadway and Sixth street, where an address on "Nationalism" was delivered by John

There were several other speakers nong whom was Prof. W. C. Bow-an. He said he is entirely in symman. He said he is entirely in sympathy with the movement toward Washington. He advised the men to be cool and keep level-headed, and declared there is nothing which the gold-bugs of this city would be so much delighted to have occur as an act of violence on the part of these men in the "industrial army." The proper thing to do is to exercise the proper thing to do is to exercise the constitutional right and go before Con-gress with a petition for work for those who need it. If Congress says it has no funds to use for that purpose just tell the Congressmen the "army" has a few wornout shirts which can be made into greenbacks. Continuing, the speaker urged the men to be law-abiding in their conduct before Congress. If, after every fair means have been tried, no redress can be secured, then it is like the tree with the axe at its roots. Every tree that brings not forth good fruit the same shall be cast into the fire. This hint at what the consequences may be was received with applause, though just what the speaker meant was somewhat uncertain.

was somewhat uncertain.

As far as could be learned there were no further meetings atended by the unemployed in a body during the day. It is expected they will go to work on First-street hill again this morning. THE WORK DONE. Arguing from a purely financial standpoint the meals which the men received on Saturday for working on the First-street, cut, although of course poor compensation, were about all it was worth. It is estimated the dirt they were able to move by shoveling into wagons could have been moved by means of wheel scrapers for about $30. This is on the assumption that the dirt would be rarried by the scrapers just far enough to drop through what is known as a trap into a wagon underneath and then houled away.

AT POMONA From a Los Angeles man who visited Pomona yesterday it was learned the men who left here Friday had their camp near the city park northwest of the town. A few of them who were found to be stragglers about the city were arrested, but, on their promise to return to camp, were released.

A number of deputy constables were sworn in but there was, no serious trouble. The citizens raised $100, which sum was used to purchase provisions. When last heard from the "army" was near Ontario.

MEASURES FOR RELIEF. As a measure for the relief of the employed a correspondent suggests that the teachers of the public schools be asked to have the pupils bring one asked to have the pupils bring one day each week four or five potatoes, or even one, if the parents think that too many. On another day a loaf of bread could be brought by each, and all the contributions be turned over to the Associated Charities for distribution.

This, the correspondent says, would remind the pupils that other little children, as well as themselves, get hungry.

hungry. AN EAST SIDE MAN'S SUGGESTION. A. E. Meigs has suggested a plan for supplying work for the worthy "unemployed," which, he thinks, in addition to removing a large share of the responsibility from the city and the responsibility from the city and county officials, would also prove a paying proposition to the backers of it. His idea is for a number of the well-to-do business men, who have been more or less interested in the recent gold discoveries, and who have been unable to do more than a few days "prospecting" at a time, to join forces, and form a company with several thousand dollars capital, and send a gang of men to work in the mines. He says that while many are doubtless unwilling to work at any price, there are hundreds who he knows would be glad of a chance to earn their bread and who would be content with a very small rate of pay aside from board and blankets. Mr. Meigs has recently returned from the Goler and Red Rock placer districts, and says that any man not afraid of work and content to dig in the same hole from day to day, can make from $1 per day upward. Mr. Meigs is now at work on a "dry washer," with which he intends to return shortly to the canyons near Mojave.

The unemployed question is likely to bob up again before the City Council today. A committee representing some of the unemployed residents and taxpayers, who are not in sympathy with the movement toward Washington, is expected to appeal to the Council today for assistance. Another committee, representing what is known as the "home reserve." is also expected to urge the Council to give further work.

SAN BERNARDINO AROUSED. The Approach of the Army Viewed With

The Approach of the Army Viewed With Unessiness.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 18.—
(Special Dispatch.) The approach of the "industrial army" is the subject of more discussion in this city today than any other one thing. Sheriff Booth left this morning for Pomona to take a look at the men and learn as much as he can as to the class of people with whom he will have to contend when they arrive here. The failure of the Los Angeles authorities to deal vigorously with the gathering army and disperse them before they could organize for marching is severely criticized here. Serious trouble is expected from them before they got out of the county, as this is the last place of importance before reaching the desert, and supplies will have to be secured here for several days' rations, if they go affoot across the sand. Some wish to secure a train of box-cars of the Southern Pacific and take them further. But there is not much chance of many agreeing to unite to foist the hungry horde upon another community. Neither is this community able to care for so many idle men for any length of time. The problem of the line of action to be pursued is therefore a serious one, and is not yet solved.

HEADED FOR ONTARIO.

Departure of the Army from Pomona-No Depredations.

POMONA, March 18.—Special Dispatch.) As far as can be learned from available resources, the six or seven hundred unemployed, under the leadership of J. L. Gould, who "struck camp" at 1 o'clock this afternoon, and commenced their tramp for Ontario, committed no depredations whatever while in this community, but remained within their lines, acting in an orderly manner.

their lines, acting in an orderly manner.

G. W. Farington, commander of Vicksburg Post, G.A.R., in this city, held an interview with J. L. Gould, who produced papers showing that he was a member of Lincoln-Garfield Post, No. 3, Department of Oregon, having a traveling card dated Portland, Or., January 2, 1894,x good for four months.

Upon this he was told in emphatic terms that the G.A.R. countenanced no such movements, and that the best thing he could do was to abandon it as speedily as possible, for such organizations reflected no credit upon the Grand Army of the Republic.

TUCSON. March 18.—Gen. Frye, leader of the Los Angeles "industrial army," is here, and today tried to get the City Council to agree to furnish the five hundred or more men now on their way to the nation's capital with bread and meat, upon their arrival in Tucson, in a day or two. Frye used to reside here, and was known at the Southern Pacific repair shops, where he was employed as a mechanic, as "ex-Senator" Frye.

SAN ANTONIO, March 18.—A delegation of sixty unemployed workingmen, who have been here for the past several months subsisting on the charlity of relief societies, left last night on the Southern Pacific train for Los Angeles to poin the Industrial army and participate in the march upon Washington. These will be followed in a few days by another large delegation from this place.

COLTON, March 18.—A hundred and thirty men, unemployed, arrived tonight from San Antonio, Tex., bound for San Francisco. Eight hundred are expected in the morning from Ontario. A citizens' meeting tonight, after closing of the churches, appointed a committee to co-operate with the county officials in providing food. The east-bound army will be given three deys' food by the Supervisors and the citizens of Colton, San Bernardino and Rediands. Good order prevails.

Among the visitors at Echo Mountain and Rubio Canyon yesterday were: Chevalier N. de Scanavi from Vienna; Dr. Gustave E. Bruere and John Schnelder, St. Louis; Misses Clara and Josephine Hasse, Los Angeles; Miss Eva. R. Shafter, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. J.-P. Carpenter, Covington, Kv.: W. G. TARDY REWARDS OF GENIUS. Millet's Widow and His Greatest Painting, "Death and the Woodcutter."

A few days ago, writes the Paris correspondent of the Philadelphia Telcorrespondent of the Philadelphia Telegraph, there passed away from a troublous life the widow of the great artist, Jean Baptiste Francois Millet. It is rather a commentary on the strange ways of this world, the fact that the man whose picture, "l'Angelus," brought so fabulously high a price, sold that and many other masterpieces for sums ranging from $50 lus," brought so fabulously high a price, sold that and many other masterpieces for sums ranging from $50 to $200 apiece, and, after toiling miserably and hopelessly in the vain effort to earn effough money to keep the wolf from his shabby door, suddenly broke down under the strain and died of a malady brought on by anxiety and privation, not knowing that his fame would speedily be lauded to the skies.

His family survived to see the apotheois of his glory; but whether the fact of "The Angelus" bringing at a sale over $100,000 consoled the artist's widow for the fact that, within, a week after this amount of money had been paid for her husband's work, she herself, then in the depths of poverty, was ejected from her little house at Barbizon by the foreclosure of a mortgage for $2000, and, had it not been for the charify of her son-in-law, would have been reduced to begging her bread, is an unsolved mystery.

Millet's greatest work remains in Paris; it is the property, I think, of Mine. Charcot, widow of the great physician, who inherited it from her father, the celebrated millionaire tailor, Laurent Richard. It is called "Death and the Woodcutter." The grisly form has laid one bony hand on the shoulder of the old and weary man, bending under a load of wood; and the form has laid one bony hand on the shoulder of the old and weary man, bending under a load of wood; and the worn, haggard face is raised in absolute extacy to meet the summons. One hand is loosening the cord that binds his burden of branches and the other is laid willingly in the welcoming clasp of the Great Consoler. It is not an illustration of Lafontaine's fable; it is merely the utter, weariness of life of an unsuccessful and wretched man, translated and transferred to canvas, with the intensity of personal expression that transforms talent into momentary genius and renders genius transcendant.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."

It was a condition of melancholy meditation that prompted the immortal Gray to write his "Elegy in a Country Churchyard," a poem which is destined to live, doubtless, as long as the tongue lasts. Poets, you know, are sensitive creatures, essentially dreamers. They pass their lives in a maze of sensuous confemplation. Fancy those "dark, unfathomed caves of ocean" holding in their oblivion those "gems of purest ray serene," and you catch a glimpse of the picture that floated in exact and forceful detail before the mind of the poet at the moment of his utterance.

Fancy, too, what such a poet as Gray would say should he step into the midst of the realm of "gems of purest ray serene" that you find at M. German's jewerry store, at No. 32 South Main street.

The working members of the Los Angeles Athletic Club are busily en-gaged just now in training for a pub-lic exhibition, which they will give lio exhibition, which they will give some evening during the flesta week in April. The entertainment is to consist of athletic feats by the gymnasium class, under direction of Mr. Bessing, and after this there will be a minstrel performance, also furnished by members of the club. As yet but little has been said about the proposed exhibition, but when the time comes the boys can be depended upon to present a good programme to a large house. The entertainment will probably be given at one of the theaters.

Local long-distance bicycle-riders are

Local long-distance bicycle-riders are still training hard for the sixteen still training hard for the sixteen-mile race to be run during the first week of April, and it will be surprising if some remarkably fast time is not made on the road by the swift wheelmen. After this race there will be no event of note until May 30, when the Athletic Club will celebrate their field day. On the same date the Southern California division of the League of Americana and the control of the League of Americana. On the same date the Southern California division of the League of American Wheelmen will hold a meet at San Diego. A number of local cyclists will undoubtedly go down to the southern city to participate in the races there, but this will not interfere with the sports here to any extent, as the majority of the "all-around" men will stay at home and help out the club day.

A FORECAST.

A FORECAST.

Many of the horses seen on the Los Angeles track at the fall meeting last year will "do" the State circuit again during the coming season, and turfmen are confident that their reappearance in improved form and better spirits forebodes a lowering of the existing records. Among the pacers Slikwood, Diablo and W. Wood will form a great trio, although it is hardly probable that they will all be put on the same track at any time together. Slikwood, the Southern California favorite, has been brought into the city from Santa Ana for service, but Farmer Willits, it is understood, will take him back and fatten him on pumpkins in ample time for training for the track events, which follow later. Rose's stock and a number of Baldwin's racers are to be relied upon, and a successful season is promised the various associations.

are to be relied upon, and a successful season is promised the various associations.

Regarding the prospects for the year, and the horses to be handled, the San Francisco Chronicle prints the following interesting article:

"The real work for the trotting season of 1894 has commenced. In a few weeks reports of fast trials will be as common as souvenir spoons of the Midwinter Fair, The prospects for a good season are very encouraging, despite the cry of hard times. Californians will see some great light-harness contests this year, and the State records made last year are sure to be smashed into smitherens.

The free-for-fail class will be made up of the grandest material in the history of the Pacific Slope, and it looks as if 2:10 will be equaled or beaten more than once. It is rather early in the day for forecasts, as many new and coming horses are sure to be developed. Klamath and Ottinger this firje last year were not considered to be very formidable competitors, but it took a wonderfully good horse to beat either one before the close of the season. This year will doubtless bring forth, the usual number of surprises. Frotters that are now eligible to the £30 class are liable to join the free-for-all brigade as the season advances, as here are sure to be a number of good things uncorked this year.

"Both Edenia and Klamath have been entered on the Eastern grand circuit, but there is ino certainty that either will cross the Rocky Mountains. Klamath has been wintered in the southern portion of the State. He is a wonderful horse, and outside of Raymond no one else knows his capability. Klamath has sensational stretch horse, and there is every reason to believe that he could have won every race in California that he started in. Edenia and there is every reason to believe that he could have won every race in California that he started in. Edenia will have to improve to get any part of the money on the Eastern circuit. "The most probable candidates in the free-for-all division are Little Albert, 2:10; Ottinger, 2:11½; Gossiper, 2:14¾; McKinney, 2:11¼; Truman, 2:15½; Astor, 2:16; Challenge Chief, 2:18; Sliver Bow, 2:16; Shylock, 2:16¼; Adelaide McGregor, 2:17½; Bonner N. B., 2:17; Lucy B., 2:17½.

gor, 2:17%; Bonner N. B., 2:17, 2:17%.
2:17%.
"E. M. Saunders will handle the reins behind Little Albert, one of the gamest campaigners that ever scored for the word in America, but the little wonder may not stand up for another season's campaign, However, Saunders is likely to get one or two races out of the son of campaign, However, Saunders is likely to get one or two races out of the son of Albert W.

"Charley Durfee will in all probability give McKinney a rest this year, and will campaign Gossiper. This symmetrical son of Simmons was a game little race-horse at the Los Angeles Fair, and is a far better horse than many of the Northern horsemen, think, especially as Gossiper acted very rank in his race at Sacramento.

"Ottinger will be a dangerous horse this year. He has wintered splendidly, and has put on 300 pounds of fiesh. Tom Keating will handle Ottinger, and is confident that he will materially lower his record this year. Keating also has Aster, from whom he expects sreat things. Aster has a wonderful burst of speed, but is not nearly as level-headed as Ottinger.

"Pete Williams will have Silver Bow and Iago. This latter trotter may prove a thorn in the side of some of the old campaigners. He certainly made a wonderfully good record at Sacramento for a comparatively new performer.

"Jimmy Dustin will be on deck with Shylock. He has the Sacramento horse at Santa Rosa. Bonner N. B. is another horse that is liable to be heard from this season. He took a racord of 2:17 last year and Dustin will have him in superb condition when the bell taps for the season of 1894. Lee Shaner is for the season of 1894. Lee Sha liance.

"Palo Alto is sure to be on deck with e or two good ones. Truman was t the horse that McCoy expected last ason, but he is liable to be a very uch more formidable horse during the d, Jr., or something else is not yet on at this end of the State. There story affect that Myrtle will be saigned this year. She was a three-year-old in 1892. She took a record of 2:19½ and beat Vida Wilkes in a stake race much to the chagrin of the talent. Lock is liable to have this big mare on the circuit.

"The free-for-all pacers are not very numerous, but if the best happen to get together there will be some red-hot contests. If Diablo, Silkwood and W. Wood should come together California will see a side-wheel battle that will compare with the great events of the Eastern grand circuit.

"J. Willets, the owner of Silkwood, is getting to be a very old man and is anxious to retire from active service. Unless Silkwood is leased or sold the black demon may not be trained. This would naturally be a great disappointment, as many good judges are of the opinion that Silkwood, properly and judiciously handled, could make it interesting for any pacer in America.

"William Murray has the great Diablo at Pleasanton. This game and speedy wriggier should be able to go the race of his life this year. His Woodland and Sacramento performances are exceptional for a four-year-old and there is every reason to expect that Diablo will step a mile in 2:06 this year, bar accidents.

"Millard Saunders will have W. Wood on the circuit this year and he is liable to be faster than ever. He gave Diablo the hottest kind of a race at Sacramento.

"Tom Keating will have Our Dick.

at Sacramento.
"Tom Keating will have Our Dick.
This game gelding was not himself last season, but he has had so much campaigning that his owners do not expect very much from the son of Gi-paigning that his owners do not expect very much from the son of Gibraltar.

"Ed Lafferty is getting Fred Mason, by Bob Mason, into condition. This pacer from the Southern Citrus Belt is said to be very fast and Ed Lafferty may be in the swim again this year. Cyrus, Hazel H. and Si. Plunkett should not be overlooked.

"Prospects for fast racing this fall were never so pright, and it is to be hoped that the associations will hang up liberal purses in order to attract the very best horses. Dates for the entire circuit will shortly be arranged. The convention should also take hold of the judge question. Some of the gentlemen who presided last season were a trifle blind, especially at Sacramento and Stockton. Races were openly bought and sold. Californians will turn out to see light-harness contests, but they expect to be protected by the gentlemen in the stand, and if they do not get it managers of tracks must not complain of decreased attendance and a lack of interest. An honest and fearless presiding judge, who can see through a job, is a necessity in California this year."

WANT AMERICAN HORSES.

(Horseman:) As winter slips away there seems to be an improvement in the British demand for American horses, and, as a consequence, dealers who cater to the export trade are moving around the country looking for animals suitable for their customers' uses. An interesting experiment, who cater to the export trade see moving around the country looking for animals suitable for their customers' uses. An interesting experiment, made some time ago, was the shipment of a carload of unbroken Montana geldings to Glasgow. The prices realized ranged from fils to £23, and left a small margin of profit. It is not, however, in this, or even the medium class of animals, that the most profitable trade with Britain is carried on; but in high-class carriage and other harness horses. The most of the big broughams in London are, strange to say, not drawn by British-bred animals—Germany being the country where the "right sort" are most easily and cheaply obtained. The lighter, trappy-looking hackney stamp, suitable for use in small phaetons, victorias and kindred vehicles, command high prices, and high-acting, thick-set roadsters for single rigs are quickly picked up for driving on the country roads. It is to these three classes that the dealer generally confines his operations, and it is peculiar that outside of a few localities almost all the horses taken for export are begotten by strictly American-bred sires. This, in view of the fact that thousands of coach horses have been imported, its significant of the esteem in which the trotting-breed is held abroad. A buyer for the foreignmarts recently complained that prices were now so high for good horses in the United States that there was little or no profit in the business. He said that of his last shipment, a bay gelding, for which he gave $450, died on the ocean, and his entire profit on the lot was only f15. This would indicate that margins in the trade are small, amounting, according to the figures given, to some $25 or $30 per head. The best thing, however, developed by the above statement, is that there is a home market for good horses at paying prices, even in these stagnant times. There is a manifest scarcity of road and carriage animals of desirable class, and the time is not far distant when the breeder who has steadily persevered along progressive will reap a rich harvest.

The Law in the Case.

The Law in the Case.

Section 538 of the Penal Code, approved March 10, 1893, "relating to misrepresentations as to circulation by proprietors of newspapers and periodicals, for the purpose of obtaining patronage," makes such misrepresentations a misdemeanor. Thus any publisher guilty of misrepresenting the circulation of his paper can be proceeded against by law.

Our pressroom and circulation books are open for the inspection of advertisers at all times. We also refer any advertiser who may desire to make further inquiry, to our agents (who are also agents for the other Los Angeles papers.) at the places named in the above list, for a verification of our statements in each case. The net daily average circulation of The Times is equal to two and one-half times. times that of any other Los Angeles paper. Sworn statements of net paid circulation are made monthly

The National Bank of California is one of the few banks that successfully stood the shock of the late panic and maintained full coin payments right through.

The National Bank of California pays no. Interest on deposits in any form, offers no special inducements for business other than reliability when the, customers exercise their right to demand their money.

Joans is looks more to reliability than high rates of interest, and desires no loans except from good and reliable parties, and then exacts good security, believing that no bank is better or more reliable than its loans.

A California Miner in That "Far Countree."

How to Get There, What to Take and the Expense.

er Mining and Life in the Dense Tropical "Bush."

in the Mines-All Traveling by Water-The Burro "Ain't in It."

ARAKA CREEK (British Guiana,) an. 10, 1894. (Special Correspondnoe.) Since my last letter apseared in The Times I have secived so many inquiries about this biony that I shall do my best to answer helf, various questions. Chapter Areas their various questions through your paper, as I positively cannot answer two hundred letters privately. I had no idea the letter would have caused so much attention, not only throughout the whole State of California, but throughout Arizona and New Mexico, which shows that The Times must be in great demand among the miners.

The most direct way to get to this throughout Arizona and New Mexico, which shows that The Times must be in great demand among the miners.

The most direct way to get to this country is by the way of New York, where there is a regular line of steamers running to Demerara, touching at the West India Islands en route. One can also come by the way of New Orleans, taking one of the steamers engaged in the banana trade to Port Limon, in Costa Rica, where you can take the Royal Mail to Kingston, Jamaica, or Barbadoes. Another route is by the way? of San Francisco to Panana, take the railroad across the isthmut to Colon, then by Royal Mail steamship to Barbadoes; from Barbadoes one can go to any port desired. The cost by any route will be not less than 3150. Georgetown is the capital of British Guiana, it is sometimes called Demerara, and is located near the mouth of the Demerara River. On the banks of the river are immense sugar plantations, some of them being protected from the encroachment of the coean by high dams or levees. Most of the transportation on these estates is done by canals.

The labor employed is mostly East India coolies, who are brought here under a contract to work for five years, the planters to furnish them with at least 1 shilling's (25 cents) worth of work each day, Sunday excepted. They sometimes earn more than the shilling by doing task work, but they cannot leave the estate until their term has expired, without a written permission from the manager, and if they do not do the task allotted to them, they are arrested and punished by aw. Majestia are very low, averaging about 60 cents per day. On the places b lack men do the work, receiving from 40 cents to 64 cents, with board.

Rations are issued to the men once a week, which consists of the men on the places of salt fish, on Juliur, two ounces of sugar, one-half pint of rice, two ounces of sugar, one-ha overseers on the plantations commence on $200 per year.

The follmate is about the same throughout the year, the months of September and October generally being dry; during the balance of the year rain falls continuously, accompanied by heavy thunder and lightning. The average rainfall is 120 inches, though it frequently goes much higher. Such an excessive rainfall produces a very rank Vegetation, and on some rivers creates a great deal of malaria. People first coming into the bush frequently suffer from dysantery, and it causes a number of deiths, notwithstanding every placer has to carry a complete medicine chest, prescribed by law.

causes a number of deaths, hotwithstanding every placer has to carry a complete medicine chest, prescribed by law.

All traveling is done on the water.
Such a thing as the old-time California préspectors, with the burro and pack-saddle, would be an impossibility, owing to the dense forests, swamps and rivers. A prospector, after procuring an outfit at Georgetown, embarks on one of the Colonial steamers, and, according to which district he intends to prospect in, proceeds, either to Bartica or Morranhama, where he dismbarks and goes from there in his jown boat, which must contain at least eight men and provisions for three months. You can buy nothing after leaving the above places. A shotgun is a good thing to have, for you can frequently get a shot at some kind of fowl or animal, and that will be your only chance of getting fresh meat.
A rifle is useless here.

Among the many rivers along which gold mining is carried on are the Luyuni. Potara, Mazarunni. Comanawarook, Essequib and their tributaries. These rivers are producing the most gold, but owing to the many dangerous falls and cataracts, people are timid about venturing up them; besidee, it is much more expensive, the trip frequently taking thirty days to some points of the Cuyuni. A captain must be engaged to Bartica at 33 per day, and a bowman at $2 per day. This is compulsory. (Boat hands at 64 cents.) Boats frequently get lost with all their contents in going up, but it is most dangerous coming down, shooting the rapids. One boat with thirty men, coming down a few months ago, struck a rock and all got lost but one, besides about forty pounds of gold. The Mazaruni is a dangerous river to travel on, owing to the many falls, but the Barnard Syndicate Placer never sends down less than seven hundred ounces of gold per month. The Barima and Barafma rivers are less dangerous, consequently it takes less capital to fitout a prospecting party. There is lenty of virgin ground to go over yet, and just as rich strikes to be made,
but it requ

spondents seem to expect, I am sorry to say.

After reaching the place one intends to prospect in, he immediately builds a magazine or storehouse at the waterside; then he goes into the bush and prospects until he finds a suitable creek, which he locates, and proceeds to build a camp, first making a clearing. The house consists of posts, on which is placed a roof of palm leaves, under which are slung the hammocks. The laborers have a separate building to themselves. No walls are needed; the roof is to protect you from rain and sun; it is never cold. A coat or vest is an unnecessary article.

At 5 o'clock a.m. a horn is sounded to wake us up, and for the laborers on make their own coffee out of sugar and water. At 6 o'clock the horn calls them to breakfast on salt fish, pork and rice. From 10:30 they work until 30 p.m., when the horn is blown for linner, which consists of pea soup and salt beef. The manager in the meanime will go down to the creek and superintend the clean-up of the day's washing.

The Politicians are Keeping Quiet and Sawing Wood.

A Talk With the Mayor of New York-News boys' Banquet-Personal and So-cial Notes - A Military Muster.

PASADENA, March 18.— (Special Correspondence.) Nothing has occurred in local politics during the past week. Although there are several tickets in the field, it is generally conceded that the nominees on the straight Republican ticket will have a walkover. However, Councilman James Clarke, who has been pressed into the field on an independent ticket by a number of influential citizens, who believe in rewarding his faithful and valuable services of the past four years by relecting him, regardless of politics, is making a strong fight and will undoubtedly poll many Republican votes. It would be a hard matter, however, to predict who will be cut on the Republican ticket, which names three such representative men as T. P. Lukens, Sherman Washburn and H. M. Hamilton for City Trustees.

Pete Stell, another independent candi-Pete Stell, another independent canusate, is doing some effective electioneering and his friends claim that he will poll a big vote on election day. The anti-Republican ticket, on which the names of Democrats, Populist and Prohibitionists are mingled in happy confusion, has not yet developed sufficient strength to entitle it to serious consideration.

THE MAYOR OF NEW YORK IS PLEASED.

Mayor Gilroy of New York city and party left on Sunday evening's Santa Fe overland for home, after a pleasant stay of several days in Pasadena. Mr. Gilroy fortunately happened to meet E. C. Webster on his way West about ten days ago and before reaching California Mr. Gilroy had promised Mr. Webster to spend at least half of the short time he had at his disposal in Pasadena. Gpon their arrival in Los Angeles the first thing Mr. Webster did was to exercise his influence to ward securing a special train to convey Mr. Gilroy to San Diego, where his family were stopping and the special train was promptly forthcoming. The New York Mayor and party returned to Pasadena on Wednesday last, since which time Mr. Webster has been devoting most of his time to their entertainment. Sunday was given up to a drive in Morgan's coach. A call was made at Col. Green's Altadena residence, after which Baldwin's ranch, the mission and other points of interest were visited.

The Times reporter, in a short conversation with Mayor Gilroy, just prior to his departure, learned that the distinguished New Yorker is highly enthusiastic over Southern California in general and Pasadena in particular.

"The wealth and the beauty of the country," he said, "and the evidences of prosperity that are to be seen on every hand far surpass my expectations. Pasadena is one of the most beautiful places I have ever visited, and the hospitality of its people is unbounded. There need be no fears of the future as long as you have the open-hearted, progressive, pushing kind of citizens, such as I have met. My many duties compel my immediate return to New York, but my term of office will expire next January and you may count upon me spending at least four months at Hotel Green next spring."

Then the train came along and Mr. Gilroy reluciantly took his departure. THE MAYOR OF NEW YORK IS PLEASED.

Several of the horses that were expected to enter in the different races failed to materialize and some were barred out on account of the fact that they outclassed their competitors.

The trotting race was participated in by three good local roadsters from Orange or thereabouts called Dobbins, Heck and Gold. The race was very interesting, the horses being evenly matched, and it was not until Dobbins was within a few yards of the wire in each heat that there was any certainty that he would be the winner. The time for the three heats was 3:10, 3:05, 3:11. Dobbins won the race and purse of $50, Heck coming in second and Gold third.

DROPPED DEAD IN HIS DOORYARD.

Benjamin F. Grouard, aged 75 years, a highly-respected resident of this city, dropped dead in his dooryard about 8 o'clock this (Sunday) morning, from heart disease. About a year ago he was stricken down with paralysis while in Wyoming, since which time it has been expected by his family and friends that he would suddenly pass away at a time perhaps when they would least expetit. He had been feeling remarkably well the past few days and this morning, bright and early, had gone out into the dooryard with his daughter, Mrs. Harry Stafford of Los Angeles, to enjoy the fresh morning air, when suddenly he turned half way round, as if to speak to her, when he fell without uttering a word and before his daughter could reach him, was dead.

Mr. Grouard was a man of varied experience in life, having left his home when but 14 years of age and going to sea. Later he visited the South Sea Islands, where, with the assistance of the natives, he built a vessel which he commanded for several years in the southern waters. He has traveled around the world several times and has often spoken of having helped construct the boiler that was placed in the first ironclad vessel ever turned out by the United States.

Mr. Grouard was born in Portsmouth, N. H., January 3, 1819. He came to California in 1852 and settled in the gold fields of Northern California. Yet in the '50s he moved to Los Angeles, where he resided until he moved to the Santa Ana Valley fifteen years ago. He died at the ripe old age of 75 years, leaving one son and four daughters.

The funeral services will be held at the late residence, corner Fifth and Olive streets, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will be in the Santa Ana Cemetery.

It has just been given out unofficially that the Santiago Fruit Association bas disposed of its entire crop of oranges to the Earl Fruit Company through F. Pay, the fruit company representative. The terms of the agreement have not yet been made public, but they are reported to be quite satisfactory to the growers. In all probability the terms of the purchase will not be given out until after Tuesday of this week, at which time bids are expected in for the fruit of several other of the local associations in the county, upon which the County Fruit Exchange will consider and perhaps advise with the local associations. From present indications none of the local associations will experience any difficulty in disposing of their entire crop in bulk at very satisfactory prices.

It is understood that the committee has fixed the capital stock of the company at $25,000 and that they have already secured one-third or more of the total amount in subscriptions. If the business men, fruit-growers and the citizens generally will but realize the importance of a cannery in this locality, it will only be a short time until the establishment will be in operation. That it is badly needed goes without saying and that it will only be a good-paying institution there seems to be no doubt among those who are informed upon the matter.

Crowds Visit the Ship on the Beach—Municipal Politics—Local News.

REDONDO, March 13.—(Special Correspondence.) Sunday being a pleasant day doubtiess contributed liberally to the travel Redondoward, but the known condition of the schooner Mary E. Smith also drew many people curjous to see what a large boat ashors looks like. Both railroads did a good business and the beach presented a lively scene all the afternoon.

At high tide the water surrounds the stranded schooner but at most other times the walking is good all around her. Some little effort was made Sunday morning to pull the boat off the beach and it will be renewed at high tide Monday. To all appearances the boat is uninjured. She sits firmly in the sand broadside to the sea and just perceptibly inclined shoreward. That she will be floated again at small expense is scarcely to be doubted. There is growing interest in the approaching municipal election, and some of the contests promise to be at least warm. A citisen's convention was assembled last week to furnish credentials for would-be candidates, and as a result the following names will have place upon the official bailots: For Trustees—Dr. T. B. Whiteside, F. D. English, H. H. Venable, Willis Clinton, Charles Martin, William R. Williams, W. J. Hess, J. V. B. Gibson; Clerk—S. D. Barkley, W. H. Harrison; Marshal—George Foyer, who is the incumbent, Ed Maxey, Charles E. Doister, S.las. Blanchard; Treasurer—George Cates, S. B. Hall, who is registry clerk, reports about twenty-five new names already enrolled, and it is estimated that the votes will reach at least 200. The contest will grow materially in interest from this until election day.

BROKE UP THE GERMAN BAND. The Sight of a Man Sucking a Lemon Had Watery and Puckerful Effect.

Watery and Packeriul Effect.
A German band of eight pieces, all wind instruments, anchored itself in front of a saloon at No. 179 Harrison wind instruments, anchored itself in front of a saloon at No. 179 Harrison avenue, Williamsburg, N.Y., the other afternoon and began to emit "Ta-ra-ra ra-boom!" John Gerner, a bill-poster, had been taking things for a cold before the bar. When he heard the "Ta-ra-ra-boom!" says the Sun, he came out into the street sucking a lemon and stood in front of Samuel Snyder, the leader and cornet-player. Snyder has a fat, round, red face. As he played "Ta-ra-ra-ra-ra," his cheeks flapped in and out like the salls of a boat in irons. Gerner, still sucking his lemon, looked first at Snyder and then at the artist who was blowing the bass horn. "Ta-ra-ra-ra-bom!" played the band, but it waven d. Snyder scowled at Gerner, but his mouth was full of cornet and he couldn't speak. Gerner was not a musician, and he didn't know that the sight of a man sucking a lemon will break up any German band that ever played "Die Wacht am Rhein." They instinctively began to suck the wind out of their horns instead of blowing it in. "Donnerwetter noch ein mail" said."

played "Die Wacht am Rhein." They instinctively began to suck the wind out of their horns instead of blowing it in.

"Donnerwetter noch ein mal!" said Snyder, describing the event later. "Donnerwetter noch ein mal!"

It wasn't so much what Snyder said as the nasty way he said it. Gerner saw that the horn-blowers were agitated. Snyder tried to avoid his eyes, as the band still played. Ta-ra-ra-ra-boom! boom! Gerner was persistent, however. He stood directly in front of Snyder and sucked his lemon veryhard. The man who played the bass horn weakened first. His boom! boom! degenerated into a wheezy gurgle and he stopped. Snyder's cornet was drowned out. Gerner still sucked his lemon. Before the band had reached the final Ta-ra-ra-boom! boom! it went to pleces. The crowd jeered, Gerner stopped sucking his lemon.

"Go away, go away mit dot lemon!" said Snyder.

Gerner went into the saloon. The crowd didn't understand what had taken place. They jeered the band.

When the horns were cleared Snyder said, with a wave of his cynnet:

"Zuszammen!" And off they started on "Hell Koenig Dir."

Before they had played the air through once Gerner came out of the saloon sucking a fresh lemon. He did it for his cold, he said. Again he stood in front of Snyder. He cornetist's eyes expressed agony. His notes began to gurgle and shriek. Beside him the tuba man was also in difficulty. He began to miss notes as wi'n his eyes glued on Gerner's lemon he automatically began to suck his instrument on every other note. Gerner worked his cheeks and he squeezed and sucked the lemon nearly dry when the hand again went to pleces. This made Snyder real peevlish. A large crowd has collected and the chances for a collection were good. Snyder told Gerner very forcibly to go away. In German he explained that the sight of the lemon had broken up his musicians. Gerner hough it is port and he handed Snyder a fresh lemon saying:

"Have one with me."

Snyder pushed Gerner away with his cornet. Then Gerner got mad and pushed Snyder, knocking him down. Pol

Dutchtown. Justice Goetting asked him:

"Is it a crime to suck lemons?"

"Yah," said Snyder, "it is a crime, chudge. It smashes my blayers all up. Dose blayers can't blay alretty mit a lemon. Verdamter kerl:"

Gerner said it was all a joke until Snyder punched him in the ribs with the cornet. Then he hit back. Gerner was fined $5 for his joke.

"A choke, iss it," said Snyder. "Maybe not so. Don't choke me some more mit lemons."

And off he ran to join the other members of the band in Dutchtown. Snyder was in too much of a hurry to take a car. As his fat figure hustled up the street he fired a parting shot of "Donnerwetter, nech ein mal."

The Sunday-closing Ordinance Generally Observed.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 18.—(Special Correspondence.) There were no business houses open today contrary to the Sunday-closing ordinance, though rumors were rife yesterday to the effect that a prominent gentile cigar-dealer had agreed to open to test the validity of the Sunday-closing ordinance. There is now a strong disposition shown to let the mattar rest until the time for electing a new Board of City Trustees, as it is understood that the present board will enact a new ordinance if the present one is knocked out, and that each succeeding one framed will be more puritanical than the last.

SAN BERNARDINO BREVITIES.

REDLANDS. March 18.—(Special Correspondence.) Since the dismissal by the County Supervisors of Prof. C. N. Andrews from the management of the San Bernardina county exhibit at the Midwinter Fair, Rediands people seem more inclined than ever to hold aloof from the institutions in which San Bernardino city holds a controling interest. The invitation of the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce for Rediands to furnish ten members for that body and receive in return space in the county exhibit at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, was declined with the remark that Rediands could find better use for its money. But the proposition is being discussed of placing with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce as separate and distinct exhibit.

The Culture of Mushrooms.

(American Cultivator:) There was an unusually large attendance at the Horticultural Society meeting, February 17.

Vice-President Francis H. Appleton of Peabody occupied the chair in the absence of the president William Falconer of Glen Cove, Lorg Island, read a valuable paper on the growing of mushrooms. The crop has quadrupled in amount during the past four years with a considerable reduction in price, making this delicacy cheap enough to be used by thousands who could not afford it until now. Heretofore the bulk of the crop has been furnished by market gardeners from portions of their houses that could not otherwise be made to produce anything. Hence, except the labor in planting the spawn, what they received for the crop was nearly all clear profit.

The reduction of price cuts down these profits, but by introducing mushrooms to thousands who before could not afford them it puts the business on a better basis. There is little danger of glutting the market if the mushrooms are grown by the best methods, for these produce them most cheaply. Thanks to the discovery of a new mushroom by Prof. C. H. Peck of Albany, in 1892, mushrooms are to become more plentiful and cheap than ever before. The new mushroom is not good-looking. It has, indeed, decidedly the appearance of a toadstool to those who know only the campastris or common field mushroom. The scientific name of the new mushroom is Agaricus Subrupens. It was found first growing wild in piles of leaf mould. They grow close tog ther in bunches all over the heap, and furnished so much more bulk and weight than Agaricus Campastris, that, despite its bad appearnce, it will, in markets accustomed to it, supersede the common field wariety.

The great difficulty in growing mushrooms is the presence of the fly that

SAN BERNARDINO BREVITIES.

James H. Boyd, the new Democratic appointee to be postmaster of San Bernardino, received his commission today and proudly exhibited it to his friends about town. He will enter upon his duties at once.

Agnes D. Blocum was yesterday granted a divorce from her husband, John F. Slocum, upon the grounds of cruelty. (American Cultivator:) There was an Agaricus Campastris, that, despite its bad appearnce, it will, in markets accustomed to it, supersede the common field variety.

The great difficulty in growing mushrooms is the presence of the fly that lays the egg which produces the grub. It is impossible to keep this fly out of greenhouses or house cellars so soon as warm weather comes. For this reason the bulk of summer mushrooms, except those gathered in fields, are now grown in caves or abound in abandoned quarries. There is one abandoned quarry under the cement works at Akron, near Bunfalo, N. Y., where the speaker saw three acres of mushrooms in all stages of their growth. This cavern, except for artificial light, is entirely dark. The fly never enters this cavern and the darkness and unform temperature produce mushrooms whiter and plumper than those grown anywhere else.

Besides the field mushroom and the heavy warlety there is a common mushroom.

Besides the field mushroom and the new variety there is a common mushroom known as the horse-tail mushroom which grows pientifully in rubbish heaps. This mushroom also springs up in groups instead of being scattered. The pileus of this variety is longer and cone like. It never opens and spreads as does the field mushroom, until it begins to decay, when it changes to a mass black as ink. The gills are at first white and then pinkish. When at its best it is preferred by many to the field mushroom. The English mushroom spawn is bet-

PET CICARETTES SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS. They are made from the very highest congress. ALLEN & GINTER, Manufacturers. Rich ter than most of that produced here, and is put up in better shape than the French spawn. Its price has been greatly reduced, while most dealers in this country who manufacture spawn sell it dearer than that imported, though it is not so good. Spawn of the new variety has been sold as high as 35 per pound, but it will be sold more cheaply this year. The 'speaker would not tell where it could be bought, saying that the dealers would duly advertise it in the agricultural papers.

The new variety of mushroom grows well out of doors if the weather is sufficiently warm. It thrives in light or shade, and when planted in the garden it springs up between rows of vegetables and flowers. It is, however, very capricious in its habits, one day giving a great abundance and the next perhaps nothing. It needs a higher temperature than other mushrooms, and will bear watering if the temperature is not reduced, which the ordinary mushroom will not. The new variety comes forward so rapidly that it partially escapes attacks of the fly, and is therefore best for growing in summer either in hothouse or in the open ground. Its spawn will probably be sold loose and not in cakes at probably $1.50 per bushel, or $5 per barrel.

When a mushroom bed is carefully made, and yet for some reason does not produce mushrooms, the speaker said that such a bed dug up and used as spawn for other beds generally produced a great crop the next season. There is still much capriciousness about this crop, which probably only shows that we have more to learn about the proper conditions for growing it. One mushroom-grower on Long Island has been in the business thirty years. He has great success with mushrooms, but is exceedingly secretive about his methods.

At the close of the lecture an interesting discussion arose about how to distinguish edible from poisonous fungiand how to cook them. Mr. Falconer used to test varieties on a cat which he had taught to eat mushroom puffu

GALLANT GEN. BARNES.

An Adventure With Two Ladies at the Mid-winter Fair. (San Francisco Call, Saturday:) Gen.

W. H. L. Barnes had a novel experience the other day. He now says that he knows some things about the Midwinter Fair that up to then had never struck bim.

that he knows some things about the Midwinter Fair that up to then had never struck him.

Gen. Barnes, having nothing particular on hand journeyed out to Sunset City with the intention of seeing the sights that he himself had some hand in creating. Faultlessly attired, as usual, the orator skipped hither and thither, as a bee filts from flower to flower. At length, well satisfied with his afternoon's amusement, he turned toward the gates.

Arrived there, the general found himself in quite a crowd, all struggling to get out. Barnes stood and waited his turn, and at length neared the exit. But, just as he was passing through, a fashionably attired lady abruptly pushed him on one side.

The general is nothing if not courte-ous. "Pardon me, madam," said he. raising his hat; "you are going the wrong way. Here is the exit; allow me to show you the way."

But the words had no sooner passed his lips when he received another and more violent push on the other side from another "lady," which took away his breath and nearly cost him his hat.

more violent push on the other side from another "lady," which took away his breath and nearly cost him his hat. This time thoroughly angry, the warrior forced his way through the gates and made for the cars. He smiled pleasantly, however, and continued smiling until he reached his home. Then he smiled no more.

"It's wonderful how they do it," he said afterward, as he related the story. The whole thing was done in far less time than it takes to tell. The fact is this: During the few seconds altercation with those women the top button of my overcoat had been cut, my pocketbook taken out of my inside breast pocket, my railroad passes slipped into an outer pocket, all that was negotiable in the pocketbook extracted and the book returned. Also a purse containing $35 in gold and some loose silver had been taken from my hip pocket, the money taken and the purse dropped into the pocket where my railroad passes were.

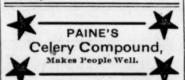

"I didn't know they did things so fine as that. Just fancy, if I had caught the thleves and had them searched, nothing would have been found on them to secure a conviction."

As Gen. Barnes moved away from his sympathetic audience he resolved to avoid the attractions of the fair sex at the gates of the Midwinter Fair.

Los Angeles, March 19, 1894. The weather prediction for today is fair.

Peculiar time, isn't it, to sell the highest grade of paint at less than anyone else? Its just the heighth of the season for painting, and that's why we think best to sell them for less than anyone else. Pation's pure mixed paints $1.50 per gallon. If weather favors to-morrow we shall have all we can do to serve buyers; betcan do to serve buyers; better come today. shades of handy household paints; pints and half pints. EASTER MILLINERY.

Easter is near at hand, and if you want a new hat now is the time to make your selections. Since our opening we have been exceedingly busy. Our patterns have been highly admired and our sales have gone beyond our expectations. We were obliged to have new pattern hats, which will be on display this week. For High Art Millinery we are the acknowledged leaders of Southern California. All are cordially invited to visit our parlors and view the display of Pattern Hats.

This week we intend showing a great many new noveltles which have just been received. Our Eastern representative has displayed excellent taste in his selections. We feel proud in saying that he has confined himself to only the finest materials and wares of the latest fashions. Catering for the best trade, his instructions were that nothing was too fine. We want your trade, and only expect to gain it by the merits of our wares and the prices we quote. If you will favor us with your presence this week we are positive it will more than repay you for your trouble.
